

AMBASSADOR NOTE • NAMIBIA

Below the baseline.

HILYA INDONGO

54.1%

of Namibian adults earn $122 or less a month.

HILYA INDONGO · FINMANGO AMBASSADOR NOTE

75%

cannot make their income
stretch to the next paycheck

90%

say food takes the biggest share of their budget

4%

rise in Windhoek water and electricity rates

Borrowing from informal lenders to buy bread. Or the taxi fare to work.

An exhausting cycle of surviving from loan to loan.

Transport, food, and housing have all pushed inflation higher.

Even the most disciplined households watch their income get swallowed by basic survival.

SO WHAT IS IT HERE

NOT

Building wealth. Investing.

BUT

Building daily resilience, and minimizing your own systematic losses.

When more than half the population lives below $122, financial health means:

- Predictability instead of guesswork
- Protection from predatory interest
- Community structures that absorb the shock

How do we make sure this cycle does not continue with us?

Hilya Indongo

FINMANGO AMBASSADOR • NAMIBIA

FINMANGO.ORG/POSTS